MRS BROWN RIDES AGAIN

at Newcastle Arena

Saturday 30th June 2012 · 2 Days · £139

Following the phenomenal success and popularity of the TV comedy series Mrs Brown's Boys on BBC

One... Brendan O'Carroll returns to the stage to present "Mrs Brown Rides Again". Loved and applauded for its satirical Irish Humour, The Mrs Brown's Boys TV series made its debut on BBC One in February of last year and proved an automatic ratings smash for Mrs Agnes Brown. Its infectious style of satire has been indulging audiences and fans alike with a hedonistic cocktail of "Father Ted meets The Royale Family!"

'Mrs Brown Rides Again' follows on the heels of 'Good Mourning Mrs Brown'; Agnes Brown and her dysfunctional family romp their way through what seems to be the mammy's last days at home. After hearing a plot, by her children, to have her put into a home, Agnes decides to prove them wrong by displaying a new lease of life. However, this is not going to be as easy as it seems for along the way she must deal with a psychiatrist trying to put her in her place... or maybe away, her son's gay partner who wants to give birth, her neighbour's wait for a heart bypass and worst of all, a family secret that everyone seems to know except her. Contains some Adult Humour
